

About Nagpur

Nagpur with its zero mile marker is the precise geographical center of India. Colloquially referred to as Orange city, it has also the claim of being the second greenest city of India. The second capital of Maharashtra is fast emerging as a commercial hub. This 317 years old city (1702 AD - 2019 AD) exemplifies a unique blend of antiquity and modernity.

Formally declared as the Tiger capital of India, Nagpur is a gateway city to some of the most popular wild life destinations like Tadoba Tiger Reserve, Kanha National Park, Pench National Park & many more across central India where one can come face to face with the elusive Tiger.

Being the geographical center of India, Nagpur automatically becomes the meeting point of many travel routes with the best air and rail connectivity with all major cities of India.
